Busy year included construction, shortages, peace

The final hours of New Year's Eve brought fun and relaxation to many Quad-Cityans. But no major news development occurred Monday evening to alter the unofficial tabulation of "major stories of 1973," other than the thermometer's drop to ten degrees below zero, intensifying December's unusually severe onslaught of adverse weather.

An unusually busy year ended Monday night, highlighted nationally by the Watergate scandal which led to the downfall of many Presidential aides; the energy crisis and other shortages; and the resignation due to criminal charges against Vice-President Spiro Agnew.

American involvement in the Vietnam war ended but missing Lieut. Roger Innes was not located.

Cong. Melvin Price of this district became chairman of the Joint House-Senate Committee on Atomic Energy. The Transportation Department studied proposed construction of the world's most modern airport at Columbia-Waterloo, Ill.

Kimberly Carol Walker, 17, Pontoon Beach, became the second girl ever to serve as a U. S. Senate page. Former President Lyndon Johnson died Jan. 22 at the age of 64. Federal usage of the Granite City Army Installation expanded sharply.

Statewide, a lottery was adopted and those aged 19 and 20 were permitted to drink beer and wine. State election and education boards were created, and a mobile home privilege tax was enacted.

New Gov. Daniel Walker feuded but later made peace with the legislature. He appointed and fired Robert Gibson, former Granite Cityan, as Illinois Capital Development Board chairman.

Former Gov. Otto Kerner was convicted of a scheme to profit from state regulation of horse race tracks, and is appealing a three-year prison term and $30,000 fine, meanwhile remaining inactive as a federal judge.

Mrs. Margaret Blackshere of Madison was named to the Southern Illinois University board. Later, separate SIUE and SIUC boards were proposed.

Two aggressive and mistaken narcotics raids in Collinsville drew national criticism in 1973. Division of the controversial East Side Levee and Sanitary District into two systems was blocked in the courts.

Regional land use planning threatened to curtail future Quad-City area development as a "flood plain" despite this community's proven ability to withstand a record flood in the spring of 1973.

The Mississippi River inundated Chouteau Island.

Bus fares were reduced to try to attract more patronage, a goal also aided by the growing gasoline shortage and rising gasoline prices.

Formation of a St. Louis Area Council of Governments, viewed as a super-government for the bi-state region, was actively proposed.

Granite City Supervisor Nelson Hagnauer, chairman of the Madison County Board, was elected as vice-chairman of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, the regional entity which approves or rejects projects involving federal financial aid.

County Courthouse space was expanded in 1973. A nature trail was authorized but extension of Maryville Road to link Routes 162 and 203 stalled.

Johnson Road was widened to Pontoon Road, but progress on reconstruction of Highway 203 was slow.

An approved county plan called for principal growth in the Alton and Edwardsville-Collinsville areas. Grand jurors cited drug abuse as a major problem.

The Quad-Cities were placed in the Belleville Area College district, and new governmental buildings were announced for Granite City and Chouteau townships. A new Nameoki area fire hall site was debated.

Paul Schuler became mayor of Granite City and Floyd David Moss became Pontoon Beach village president.

Mike Sasyk was re-elected as mayor of Madison. Dr. John E. Lee Jr. was re-elected as Venice mayor but died after an unexpected stroke, Lloyd Patterson becoming acting mayor.

Sanitary sewer breaks plagued Granite City, where a possible referendum on storm drainage was discussed. Revision of the police department was proposed. Dobrey Slough area drainage efforts continued.

Pontoon Beach moved into a new village hall and the Venice city hall was expanded. Elimination of the Broadway railroad crossing traffic bottleneck was authorized.

Downtown mall planning bogged down because of a lack of precedent for the taxing plan.

Venice observed its 100th year as a municipality on June 28.

Police freed three hostages after a vigil of nearly five hours. Over 100 stolen cars were found to have been dumped into the Mississippi River. An outpatient clinic plan became a hotly-disputed issue.

Madison designated an agent to try to sell the idle bridge.

School financial squeezes occurred despite enrollment decreases. A third Venice school tax election is planned. Madison High School student unrest developed and then subsided.

John Palcheff became Madison school superintendent.

Granite City High School North was built and opened, with the earlier GCHS named South High. Central Junior High School was closed.

Venice High School placed third in the state Class A basketball tournament and GCHS South finished third in Illinois soccer competition.

New retail stores were constructed along Nameoki Road and the Colonial Haven Nursing Home was opened at Stearns Avenue and Pontoon Road.

A proposed new bank, Colonial Bank of Granite City, was announced. The Parkside Apartments complex was constructed.

Niedringhaus United Methodist Church was razed and rebuilt and large Apex Oil Co. tanks were started at the Tri-City Regional Port.

Secondary sewage treatment was arranged for Granite City; similar service for Madison and Venice through a regional treatment plant became a controversial issue.

The traffic death toll on Federal Aid Route 151 (Great River Road) was regarded as unusually high. Construction of a railroad overpass for Route 151 south of Niedringhaus Avenue was authorized.

Production booms occurred at Granite City Steel, A. O. Smith Corp. and American Steel Foundries. The Castings Division of General Steel Industries was phased out of operation.

The Southwestern Illinois Industrial Association was formed and Granite City Steel continued extensive anti-pollution efforts, also starting a recycling program for discarded metal.

Record production was achieved at the world's largest instant tea plant, the local Nestle Co. facility.

A new soybean crushing plant was built near Cargill Road. Owens-Illinois announced plans to move its Madison corrugated shipping box production to Mount Olive.

Several windstorms caused property damage here during 1973, and fog led to chain-reaction Interstate 270 crashes involving 40 vehicles.

Downtown area residences were restored and remodeled.

Efforts were made to create a doctor referral service, and there were successful United Way and Tree of Lights fund drives. The Illinois attorney general barred another drive here due to lack of disclosure.

The Mississippi River Festival held its fifth summer concert season and made plans for a sixth.

It truly was an eventful year for Quad-Cityans. But 1974 already is giving indications of being an equally busy, newsy year.

New layoffs at Smith firm

Production of auto frames at the A. O. Smith Corp. plant in Granite City was shut down today.

The plant's entire production staff of approximately 800 employes will be laid off until Jan. 21, according to a plant spokesman.

The cutback in production is due directly to a reduction in orders by General Motors because of the energy crisis, the spokesman said.

Present plans call for resumption of work Monday, Jan. 21, "assuming there are no further developments by that time," he added. All laid off employes are expected to be called back at that time.

Approximately 100 maintenance workers and about 200 office and clerical workers will continue on their jobs during the shutdown.

The Smith plant had a work force of approximately 1,250 employes at the time a cutback order caused the layoff of 80 production workers on Nov. 30.

The plant was closed Monday and Tuesday because of the weekend snowstorm.

General Motors has announced plans to lay off 86,000 workers, 38,000 of them indefinitely, because the energy crisis is turning some buyers away from big cars.

Availability of gasoline has become such a concern that U. S. auto sales are expected to reach only 10½ million instead of the predicted 13½ million cars during 1974.

The St. Louis plant of General Motors, for which the Smith plant manufactures auto frames, is one of ten facing a shutdown of passenger car reduction during January and February. Layoffs affecting 3,500 workers already have been announced at the St. Louis plant.

Optimism at ASF

A general recession—if one occurred in the United States—might alter the future picture, but the outlook otherwise is optimistic for the Granite City plant of American Steel Foundries.

Mitchell B. Milonski, works manager of the plant, in discussing 1974 projections, noted that the Granite City ASF plant had increased sales in its fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1973, compared with a year earlier.

The plant is a major producer of cast steel side frames and bolsters for railroad freight car trucks.

"The better performance at the Granite City plant of American Steel Foundries was a direct result of a nationwide resurgence in demand for new freight cars which began this past April," Milonski related today.

"During ASF's 1973 fiscal year, more than 85,000 new freight cars were ordered in the United States, a 73 per cent gain from 49,000 the year before.

"At Sept. 30, 1973, the national backlog of new freight cars to be built was 51,000, up from 21,000 a year ago. Freight cars built in fiscal 1973 totaled 53,000, compared with 50,000 in 1972," Milonski told the Press-Record.

"This strong upsurge in ordering has enabled the Granite City plant to operate on a five-day-a-week schedule since last spring, up from the four-day rate which was common in 1972.

"Another factor which helped the plant was a new ASF product introduced in January 1973—the T-11 suspension system for 100-ton capacity freight cars.

"This system was designed to improve safety and riding qualities, increase component life, decrease damage to track, and reduce railroad cargo losses.

"The side frames and bolsters for the system are being produced at the Granite City plant, and orders for over 2,000 car sets have been accepted.

"Because of the plant's currently large order backlog in all product areas, the 1974 outlook is optimistic.

"However, any prediction is hazardous because of today's business uncertainties. Paramount among these, of course, is the energy shortage," Milonski pointed out.

"ASF uses electricity to melt scrap into molten steel, and a lack of electric power could result in production curtailments.

"In addition, natural gas is used throughout the Granite City Works for finishing operations. The company is trying to store oil as an alternate fuel to the extent supplies are available.

"Even if ASF is able to maintain good production levels, company customers in other parts of the country may have local energy shortages which could cause them to cancel or delay some orders," he noted in tempering the optimistic outlook with a degree of caution.

"Other problems faced by the plant in 1974 are a lack of experienced manpower to fill new job openings, and shortages of raw materials and parts.

"In addition, the costs of labor and scrap steel continue to steadily rise. And competitive conditions as well as

Traffic deaths decline

Traffic fatalities in the Quad-City area fell sharply during 1973 for the second consecutive year, dropping 30 per cent below the total number of traffic deaths occurring in 1972, and 54 per cent below the record number of fatalities in 1971, according to statistics compiled by the Press-Record.

Twenty-one persons died in traffic accidents during the past year, compared to 30 during 1972 and 46 in 1971. The 1971 fatalities set a record for the number of traffic deaths during any single year in Quad-City history.

Traffic statistics also show that 823 persons were injured in traffic mishaps during 1973, a reduction of 9.8 per cent below the total of 911 persons who suffered injuries in 1972 accidents in the Quad-City area.

Because of a change in the method of tabulating statistics, by which accidents in which no injuries resulted were eliminated from the statistics, the exact number of all types of accidents was not determined.

From January through May, however, there was a total of 1,004 accidents of all types, including non-injury mishaps, in which 305 persons were injured and 11 persons were killed.

From June through December, the period for which non-injury accidents were eliminated from tabulations, there were 387 accidents listed, all of them involving a total of 520 injuries and 16 fatalities.

Records show that five of the fatalities during 1973 occurred during the month of March. This was 23 per cent of the total number of traffic deaths during the year. The March fatalities totaled two more than in March of 1972, when three traffic deaths occurred.

There were three traffic deaths each in January, August and November, compared to three in January, three in August and two in November during 1972.

A tabulation of accidents (including non-injury mishaps) from January through May, including injuries and fatalities in that order, were:

January, 208-54-3; February, 140-49-1; March, 220-63-5; April, 206-61-1; May, 230-87-1.

The tabulation from June through December, listing only those accidents in which injuries occurred, the number of injuries and fatalities, includes:

June, 67-82-2; July, 41-59-1; August, 39-44-3; September, 63-80-0; October, 59-76-0; November, 53-81-3; December, 65-96-1.

Grassroots government

Granite City Council 8 p.m. Monday, Jan. 7, at GC City Hall.

Daylight time Sunday

The old adage for changing clocks seasonally, "spring forward and fall back," does not apply this weekend, when the nation will go on daylight saving time in mid-winter as a fuel conservation move.

Under a law signed by President Nixon, clocks are to be turned ahead one hour at 2 a.m. Sunday, but most people will turn them ahead before retiring Saturday night.

The nation is to remain on daylight saving year-round until October 1975.

It has been estimated that the extra hour of evening daylight will save the equivalent of 150,000 barrels of oil each day in the U.S.

After the time change, many area residents may find themselves rising for work before dawn. But sunset will be one hour later, so those who now return home in darkness may find it is still daylight when they reach home.

Leader Store constructing new building

A new Leader Department Store and a new dry cleaning plant are among projects for which building permits have been issued by Granite City.

Both are to be in the area of Nameoki Road shopping centers.

The new department store, which will carry clothing, soft goods and domestic goods, is being constructed on a lot starting 135 feet west of Tri-Mor Bowl.

The lot is 100 by 140 feet and the building, containing a main floor and mezzanine, will be 88 by 120 feet.

Construction will take about 120 days, weather permitting, and store officials hope to open the new facility in the spring.

The building will be of brick and concrete, with fluted blocks and flared brick, which is designed to blend with nearby major stores and also buildings at the new Crossroads Shopping Plaza.

The building permit listed a construction cost of $100,000. Henry Ross Construction Co. is general contractor and will own the building, leasing to the Leader Department Stores.

L. Wolf Co. is general contractor for a Holiday Cleaners building which is to be constructed in the parking lot of the Nameoki Village Shopping Center in front of Gasen's Drug Store. The free-standing building will put 1,600 square feet under roof.

The permit listed construction costs of $24,000. Wolf said he hopes to begin construction as soon as weather permits and building materials are available.

It should take three months to complete the building, he said. The cleaners also will be a brick and concrete block building.

Ross also was granted a permit to raze an existing building at 3711 Nameoki Road at a cost of $1,000 to make room for the new department store.

A permit also was granted to B. E. Hohlt to raze a four-family apartment building at 1815 Grand Ave. at a cost of $1,000. Hohlt said he has no plans for the property at this time.

Gasoline prices continue rise; 55 speed limit law

Motoring is becoming steadily costlier, slower and uncertain.

A 50-cents-a-gallon regular gasoline price range was approached or surpassed this week at many locations in this metropolitan area.

Gasoline remains in relatively short supply, with fueling hampered by the never-on-Sunday sales policy at most stations.

And President Nixon yesterday signed a bill that will cut off federal highway funds to states that fail to reduce the speed limit to 55 miles an hour on most highways and roads.

Federal energy officials yesterday forecast price hikes ranging from 25 per cent for gasoline and diesel fuel to 33 per cent for some heating oil.

A new allowance for increased overhead costs permits retail price rises of one cent to 1½ cents a gallon at gasoline pumps, with wholesalers allowed ½ cent and retailers in some instances up to an additional cent.

County workers okay pay raise

Members of Local 799, State, County and Municipal Employes, voted yesterday to accept a 17 per cent pay raise over two years, similar to the pact approved by sheriff's deputies Dec. 28.

Subject to approval by the Madison County Board Jan. 16, there are to be 6 per cent wage hosts retroactive to Dec. 1, another 6 per cent June 1 and a 4 per cent raise plus hospitalization insurance beginning Dec. 1, 1974.

Walker opens office here

A branch office of Illinois Governor Daniel Walker was opened at 9 a.m. today at 2037 State St.

A spokesman for the Governor said the purpose of branch offices is to help citizens with problems related to state government.

"Many people have a problem and just do not know who to call or how to get it solved. This is where we come in. We try to cut through the red tape and help the citizen," Mrs. Kathy Gregus of Rural Route Two, said.

Mrs. Gregus will be the governor's representative in this area.

The branch office will be open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

In addition to 10 branch offices in the greater Chicago area, the governor has offices in Jacksonville, Decatur, Rock Island, East St. Louis, Fairview Heights, Washington Park, Alton and Granite City.

New Year's Baby Jason Ellis makes debut at GC hospital

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Press-Record Staff Writer

The New Year's baby was 13 hours, 6 minutes late in arriving at St. Elizabeth Hospital, but Jason Devin Ellis was no small package.

Little Master New Year came into the world at 1:06 p.m. Tuesday, weighing eight pounds, 10 ounces, and he was the only infant born on New Year's Day at the local hospital.

Jason Devin is the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Ellis, 4025 Central Lane, Pontoon Beach. His mother is the former Miss Katheryn Winkle and his father is employed as an auto mechanic at Florissant Dodge in St. Louis.

The temperature was 10 degrees below zero, the coldest Jan. 1 temperature on record in 87 years, when Gary Ellis set off from home with his wife for the hospital at 2 a.m.

There wasn't too much traffic and the couple experienced no problems in reaching St. Elizabeth's safely.

"Gary may have driven a little faster than normally with all the snow and ice and I kept telling him there wasn't any hurry," the new mother said. With a first baby you never know, but as it turned out she was right.

Jason Devin is the granson of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Winkle and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ellis Jr., all of Granite City.

He has three great-grandparents, Gilbert Ellis Sr. of Granite City and Mr. and Mrs. John Falk of Aliquippa, Pa., and a maternal great-great-grandmother, Mrs. Kathryn Schneider, also of Aliquippa.

Continuing a traditional program established some years ago by the Granite City Jayceettes, the new mother and infant were presented a host of gifts, donated by local merchants.

Mrs. Wanda Hill and Mrs. Ginger Hahne of the Jaycecettes organization served as co-chairmen of the 1974 project.

This year, "Daddy" was included in the New Year's gift program, receiving a $15 certificate from Lord Nelson's men shop.

A bouquet of red roses was delivered to Mrs. Ellis, an annual courtesy paid each New Year by Ferd's Flowers.

The new arrival received a complete layette, consisting of items contributed by many firms. He also has a new bassinet from K-Mart, a baby book from Graham's Book Store and an infant's ring from Michel Jewelry and Gift Shop, among other gifts.

The parents will be entertained for dinner at Charlie's Restaurant, when convenient to the couple, and Mrs. Ellis also was presented a unique trophy, inscribed "Mother of the 1974 Baby," from the House of Trophies.

Other firms donating gifts to the Ellis family, include:

P. N. Hirsch and Co.; Marilyn's House of Fashion; Stefanie Shop; Hub Drugs; Walker's Jewelry; Downtown Drugs; Ruth's Store of Fashions.

Reese Drugs; Glik's Department stores; Family Thoughtfulness Center; Skottie's Jewelry; Hi-Lite Studio; Joseph's School of Hair Fashions; Top's 'N Bottoms; Schermer-Essen Hardware; Factory Outlet; Bob's Flowers.

Granite City Trust and Savings Bank; Libson Shop; Leader's Department store; Merle Norman Cosmetic Studio; Grant City store; Tri-Cities Area YMCA; Children's Shop; Hudson's Jewelry and F. W. Woolworth Co.,

Mrs. Inskip, 86, succumbs

Mrs. Martha P. Inskip, 86, of 2553 Circle Drive, a 60-year resident of Granite City, died at 10 p.m. Tuesday at St. Elizabeth Hospital where she had been a patient five days.

She was a member of the Bethesda Baptist Church. Mrs. Inskip was a native of Salem, Mo.

Her husband, Elmer Inskip, died in 1963.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Mae Hutchison of Rolla, Mo., Mrs. Grace Hutton and Mrs. Geneva Tidwell, both of Granite City; one son, Wilbur Wallace, Granite City; three sisters, Mrs. Edith Fike, Iberia, Mo., Mrs. Mabel Gray, Salem, Mo. and Mrs. Gertrude Turner, Alton; one brother, Arch Pace of Granite City, 27 grandchildren and 28 great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are given in the obituary column.

GSI settlement

General Steel Industries, Inc., and the New York City Transit Authority have reached a settlement of claims and liabilities involved in the production of 352 subway cars within the amount which GSI provided for these contingencies in its financial statements at Dec. 31, 1972, it was announced this week.

W. Ashley Gray Jr., chairman of GSI, said the agreement confirms that there are no unanticipated losses under the R44 subway car contract to affect the 1973 earnings of GSI. Delivery of these cars was completed in April 1973.

Gray said GSI has been advised that the agreement reached with the Transit Authority has been approved by the New York Metropolitan Transportation Authority and by the city comptroller of New York.

Optimism

"The company will devote considerable effort to meeting these challenges in the months ahead," Milonski forecast.

He continued, "In 1973, ASF's Granite City plant continued to be a major factor in the economic life of the Tri-Cities area.

"For example, the plant employed 1,214 people at Sept. 30, 1973, a 41 per cent increase from 864 a year ago.

"Of the new people hired during the past fiscal year, 351 were veterans, with 176 of those serving in the Vietnam conflict. Sixty-one came from the ranks of the socially disadvantaged.

"In fiscal 1973, the local plant's employes earned $9,393,000 in wages and salaries, up from $7,704,000 in 1972.

"The company and its employes contributed more than $34,000 to area United Fund drives.

"Pollution control also continues to receive high priority.

"Although the Granite City ASF plant previously installed equipment to clean the air discharged from its electric furnaces, other projects were undertaken in 1973 to reduce dust in work areas," Milonski reported.

Madison controls use of unsafe dwellings

A measure to control occupancy of delapidated and unsafe buildings in Madison was approved by the city council last night.

The new ordinance establishes an occupancy permit which must be obtained from the city hall before new occupants can move into a building. Utilities may not be provided to the new occupants unless the permit can be shown.

Persons wishing to move into a house must apply for a permit and pay a $2 permit fee. The city's building inspector then will inspect the housing unit to see if it meets the city's building code and is safe. If he declares the unit safe, he will issue the permit, according to the ordinance.

It was explained that the city has been having difficulty locating absentee landlords who own delapidated buildings in the city and rent them to families.

The council approved appointment of John Bridick to fill a vacant three-year term on the Board of Police Commissioners.

City officials announced that 1974 vehicle stickers now are available at the city clerk's office in city hall and will be issued free for all vehicles until Feb. 15.

After that date, a $5 fee for automobile stickers and a higher charge for trucks will be assessed.

Vehicle owners are requested to bring their license registration forms with them when applying for the stickers.

No heat shuts 2 GC schools; rest open

Classes started this morning at all Quad-City public and parochial schools with exception of Niedringhaus Grade School and Grigsby Junior High School.

Both Granite City school buildings were experiencing boiler problems with no heat being produced, according to school district officials.

At mid-morning it had not been clarified if parts would be needed to repair the boilers, thereby determining whether either school building will operate Friday.

Granite City schools were closed Wednesday, not because of snow on the streets, but as the extremely cold temperatures caused difficulties with more than half of the buses used by the district.

School officials were notified at 5 a.m. yesterday that because of freezing gas lines, many bus engines quit when the vehicles were moved out doors after first starting in the garage.

No problems were noted in Madison or Venice districts where children resumed classes on a regular schedule Wednesday.

Granite City officials said the bus problems were responsible for use of a third emergency day without school this school year. The district is allowed only five days for emergency closings, after which a portion of state aid is forfeited each day the schools are closed.

Authorities said the schools probably will not be closed again by weather conditions as other problems are threatening to use additional emergency days at some schools.

Several of the district's heating system boilers have malfunctioned because of inferior fuel, the officials said. The fuel being used is the only supply available to the district and has been responsible for boiler filters clogging and other problems.

Use of more than five emergency closing days at any one school will cause the loss of state aid for each additional day used at that school.

The remaining two days are being reserved for individual school closing, unless extremely adverse weather or other conditions force officials to close all schools, it was explained.

Mrs. Lyle succumbs at 80

Mrs. Larch E. Lyle, 80, of 62 Harnett Place, Wood River, formerly of Granite City, died at her home at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

2 counsels likely in impeachment inquiry

By LESTER BELL
Press-Record
Washington Bureau

Republicans had no voice in the appointment of a chief counsel to head the Presidential impeachment inquiry, asserts Rep. Robert McClory of Illinois, a ranking minority member of the House Judiciary Committee.

Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N. J., committee chairman, announced appointment of John M. Doar, 52, of New York, a Republican who was affiliated with two Democratic administrations while serving in the Justice Department.

Rep. Thomas F. Railsback, another Republican and the only other Illinoisan on the committee, shared McClory's view that Rodino erred in not consulting the minority side of his committee.

It was understood that committee Republicans have received Rodino's private assurances that they can select their own special counsel. A search is said to be under way by Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, the ranking Republican.

At the Rodino news conference to announce Doar's appointment, Doar was on hand for questions. Appointed by President Dwight Eisenhower, Doar also served under the administration of Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

"I feel totally confident with our selection of Mr. Doar after an extensive search among distinguished members of the Bar," said Rodino, terming Doar a "man of ability and the highest degree of integrity."

"I don't know the fellow at all," McClory said later. "The Republicans had nothing to do with his selection.

"I am disappointed the chairman saw fit personally to name him without prior consultation with the ranking Republicans or other members of the committee."

Hutchinson and McClory have equal seniority on the committee. The two tossed a coin to decide who would be ranking seniority member, and Hutchinson won.

McClory has misgivings about Doar's "close affiliation with Johnson and Kennedy."

Under such circumstances, he explained, "It will be difficult to be bi-partisan and objective" in the inquiry.

Railsback said that, other than what he learned form Doar's biography and his handling of questions at the news conference, he knows nothing about the appointee.

"The Republicans did not have anything to do with his selection," Railsback stressed. He added, however, he was impressed by Doar's answers in the conference and his assurance that he looked on his role as an "investigator" and not a "prosecutor."

While conceding Rodino's right to appoint chief counsel, Railsback said the chairman would have been better advised to consult with the minority in the interest of credibility.

McClory and Railsback, in time set aside for House discussion of the issue, complained of a lack of communication and participation by the minority in shaping the inquiry.

McClory pointed out the Republicans supported an appropriation of $1 million for the committee staff. He said they are as desirous as Democrats for a "full, fair and expeditious" inquiry.

He called for establishment of "three basic points" in fairness to all committee members:

1. The inquiry should be conducted under the direction of the committee, or a subcommittee, or a select committee of the House Judiciary Committee.

2. Although it may not be possible to set a definite date for ending the inquiry, a timetable could be established for a report, or interim report, to the full committee.

3. The manner of conducting the inquiry should be determined as early as possible.

Railsback also enumerated steps that he feels should be taken immediately:

1. An ad hoc subcommittee of 8 to 10 members, equally divided between Democrats and Republicans, should be named at once to begin the initial inquiry.

2. The subcommittee should set a timetable so it can at least have a goal.

3. Ground rules to protect the rights of the accused should be made to include: standards of proof, admissibility of evidence, definition of an impeachable offense, the question of closed or open sessions, and all other procedural and legal questions likely to confront the committee.

Swim-Y-Thon raises $2,068

Forty-six residents of the Quad-City area swam in the Swim-Y-Thon held during the holidays in the local "Y" pool. According to the chairman, Walt Stauffer, the swimmers who were allowed 15 minutes to swim, accounted for the following statistics: 1,214 lengths of the 20 yard pool, 389 sponsors who pledged a total of $2,068 based on the number of lengths their swimmers completed.

Among those who swam, ages ranged from 9 to 54; number of lengths completed varied from eight to 51.

Those recording 35 or more lengths included Connie Hein, Lisa Wright, Paul Christiansen, Pete Mushill, Paula Worthen, Tom Werner, and Michael Tharp.

Stauffer also praised the following members who assisted by timing and recording—Debie Herman, June Williams, Betty Devine, Jo Butler, Phyllis Mercer, Kim Seybert, Kathy Cross, Val Harris, Maureen McFain, Ann Debevc, Sue Miller, Dianne Ripper, Barb Small, Debbie Cavins, Denette Ruebhausen, and Cindy Vaughn.

"The funds raised in the project," Stauffer stated, "will be divided between YMCA World Service and local "Y" needs, with the latter receiving the larger per centage."

"On behalf of the Swim-Y-Thon Committee," he concluded, "we want to thank all those sponsors, swimmers, and helpers who made this event a success."

Venice make-up game Saturday

The Venice Red Devils, originally not scheduled to play again until Jan. 12, have just announced that they will host Gibault-Waterloo at 8 p.m. Saturday. The game between the two schools had been set for Dec. 21, but was postponed due to inclement weather. It is not included in the cage advance on Page Seven.

The Gibault Hawks will be seeking their first victory of the season against the Red Devils. Gibault lost its seventh and eighth games in the Columbia Holiday Tournament to Columbia in the first round and again to New Athens in the consolation quarterfinals.

In their first four outings of the season Gibault was hitting on 28 out of 65 field goals attempted and averaged a total of 47 rebounds.

Sophomore Tom Schmidt, who has been averaging 22 points a game, led the Hawks in scoring against New Athens with 28 total points. His team made good 31 field goals but only hit on six shots from the free throw line in the consolation match.

Likely to start against Venice with Schmidt is senior Brad Melliere who led Gibault in scoring with 19 points against Columbia in the first game. Schmidt was held to 13 points in that loss with 11 of his points in the last quarter. The remaining starters have yet to be named by Coach John Holtschlag.

The Red Devils had a 3-2 record going into the Columbia tournament but now are boasting a 6-2 record and their second consecutive holiday tournament with new coach Richard Essington at the helm.

Venice downed Mulberry Grove, Staunton, and Central Aviston to meet Lebanon in the championship match. The local Devils posted a 64-52 victory over the Greyhounds in successfully defending the crown.

Like Gibault, the local squad also boasts a sophomore star shooter, Reggie Gardner, who in the championship clash tallied 21 points against the enemy.

Coupled with the high-scoring of all-state senior Ron Henry, he scored a total of 96 points in the tournament, 30 in one game, Venice should match the Hawks basket for basket Saturday.

Complementing the Red Devils on their home court will be Mike Logan, Tony Sitton and J. B. Harmon.

Tourney victory yet another feather for Schmitt's cap

By KEN THOMPSON
Press-Record Staff Writer

The Warriors domination in capturing the 13th annual Granite City High School South invitational holiday wrestling tournament last week added to the already impressive record of the school and Coach William Schmitt's 24 year tenure as head mentor.

During that period the Warriors have won 342 meets, lost 28, tied four, captured 72 tournaments and have never lost a district tournament, having won all 16 since the wrestling program at South began.

The local team has won 18 of 20 sectional meets and placed first in state competition in 1965, second in 1957, third in 1966, and fourth in 1961.

South matmen earned 104 points in edging out 15 other participating schools for first place in this year's holiday tournament, its first overall victory since 1968.

Four Warriors captured individual weight class honors, with three of the four emerging undefeated in the two day classic.

Taking first place honors for South were John Niebur (119 pounds), Don Heath (126), Dan Heath (132) and Brian Wilson (155). Don Heath lost his only match to Steve West of Riverview Gardens, Mo., in the championship rounds.

South wrestlers won 10 of their matches on falls and posted the greatest margin of defeat in decisions when Wilson downed Bloomington's Brian Britten 36-11.

Perhaps one of the most rewarding victories in the meet was Niebur's upset of Missouri state champion Tom Raney of Normandy. Raney took second place in individual honors.

Place winners for the Warriors were: 98 pounds—Woody Halbrook, third; 105—Steve Garland, third, and 245—Dave Rushing, second.

Bloomington, which finished second in the meet with 67½ points, had two champions: 105—Mark Jordine, and 167—Keith Brandt.

Granite City North, which tallied 64 points to take third place honors, posted seven of its wins with falls and had the quickest time in a fall. The Steelers Jim Starling (138) pinned Jasni Hassan of Wood River in 31 seconds.

Rudy Pyle defeated all of his opponents to end the meet undefeated and was the only North wrestler to take the individual championship in the 112 pound division.

Place winners for the Steelers were: 98—Randy Hartline, second; 132—Chester Fetter, second; 138—Terry Johnson, third, and heavyweight—John McMillon, third.

Belleville East dropped into the fourth finishing position by one-half point when North pulled ahead on points earned by McMillon in the last match of the tournament.

Belleville officials verbally protested the points earned by GCHS North after the competition ended, stating that North's 98 pound competition defaulted in his championship match with North's Randy Hartline, therefore the Steelers finished the meet with 63 points rather than 64.

The 98 pound entry, Woody Halbrook, suffered a concussion in his first round loss to East's Jim Reizer, drew a bye in the second round and then defeated his next three opponents to meet Hartline in the championship round.

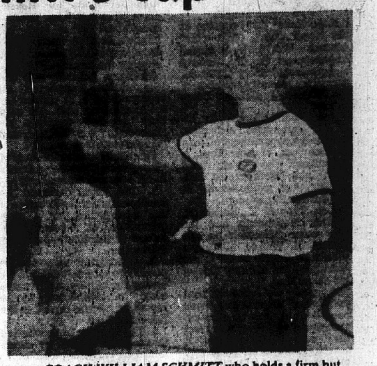

He later became ill from his first round injury and was advised by the team physician not to participate. Halbrook was treated for his injuries the next day at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Warrior Coach William Schmitt, organizer of the event, told the Press-Record, "Halbrook did not default in his bout with Hartline.

A default meant he would have appeared for the match but failed to complete it." He added, "Halbrook forfeited the match when he failed to appear, no matter what the reason. And according to the rules, a team which wins by a forfeit receives one point."

Belleville East contended that if Halbrook had wrestled Hartline and beaten him, North would have finished fourth and Belleville third.

The forfeit to Hartline in the final round was the first defeat for the young Halbrook this season. If it can be regarded as a defeat.

Back from international meet

To many sport fans the Orange Bowl at Miami, Fla., means a holiday football game, but to 16-year-old Bill Rusick of Granite City it meant the chance of a lifetime to be a participant in the annual Invitational Tennis Tournament at the famed bowl stadium during the holidays.

Rusick, a junior at Granite City High School South, received an invitation to the international meet by being ranked fifth in the Missouri Valley Conference for boys 16-and-under.

The youth captured the first round last week by defeating his Ecuador, South America, opponent 6-2 and 6-2 to advance in the single elimination quarterfinals on Christmas day. In that round, he lost by the same score to a contestant from Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The local youths credentials include the National Junior Boys' tennis championship in Michigan in 1973, a feat for which he was classed among the top 64 in the nation.

As a sophomore at South, Rusick won the Southwestern Conference District singles crown and finished the season among the top 16 players in the state.

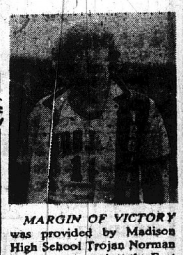

Having begun his tennis career in the Granite City Park District program, has won numerous Granite City men's tournament titles and was a recent champion of the Decatur (Ill.) Singles Tournament and runner-up in the St. Louis district men's single quarterfinals.

A STAR ON THE MOVE—Bill Rusick, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Rusick, 2735 Michigan Ave., was a participant in the recent Orange Bowl International Invitational Tennis Tournament at Miami, Fla.

Combining of trips, use of phone, fewer deliveries, tuneups urged to save fuel

A voluntary nationwide campaign to cut gasoline consumption by at least 25 per cent—and avert the need for compulsory rationing—has been launched by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. The theme is: "Save, America—Save 25 per cent."

Arch Booth, chief executive officer of the business federation, called on businessmen to give leadership in their communities and their places of business to the campaign aimed at all Americans.

Noting that a gasoline shortage of at least 25 per cent is expected for the immediate future, even if the Arab oil embargo is lifted or relaxed, Booth said, "We must learn to get along on about 75 to 80 per cent of the gasoline we would normally use.

"Unless we succeed in conserving the gasoline available, on a voluntary basis, we face compulsory rationing, which most people would like to avoid."

The conservation drive urges:

—All Americans, by driving their cars two days less a week or by other measures, save at least 25 per cent in gas consumption.

—All business and industry reduce their own consumption by 25 per cent or more.

Besides asking business to cut gasoline use in its operations, Booth said, firms will be asked to establish and encourage conservation programs for employes, such as car pools and promotion of mass transportation.

Calling the energy crisis "real" and saying it will "be with us for several years," Booth added, "What this means most directly for individual Americans is that we are going to have far less gasoline for our automobiles for a long time to come.

"For the immediate future, we must save all we can. We face a shortage of at least 25 per cent in the first part of 1974 and perhaps beyond, even if the embargo is relaxed. But we can achieve the needed conservation voluntarily."

Details of the proposed conservation program include:

1. Driving two less days each week. Motorists are asked not to use their cars at least two days each week. Greater use of car pooling and better planning and consolidation of trips is suggested. For example, one-third of all automobile trips are "family business trips"—to school, to stores, to doctors.

2. Reducing business consumption. Suggested conservation measures include greater use of the telephone as opposed to personal contact, curtailing or combining trips in company vehicles, and urging customers to take home purchases rather than require delivery.

3. Maintenance and operation of optimum mileage. Specific measures suggested include properly inflated tires; smooth operation, without sudden starts and stops; reduce engine idling time; reduced speed on highways; and regular engine tuneups.

The voluntary campaign is an outgrowth of special studies of the energy problem and is patterned after a conservation program being initiated in the Twin Cities of Minnesota under the sponsorship of the Minneapolis and St. Paul Chambers of Commerce and the Minnesota Association of Commerce and Industry.

The U. S. Chamber has set up an Energy Impact Center to collect and disseminate examples of how fuel shortages are affecting business.

It also will publicize successful fuel conservation programs and help the Federal Energy Office to be informed of energy developments in the business sector.

In addition, the Chamber has formed an Energy Users' Council with the National Association of Manufacturers.

The Council, consisting of major energy users, will draw on the experiences of firms affected by the energy crisis to recommended long-range steps to meet the economy's future fuel needs.

Pruning may save evergreens

By WAYNE B. SIEFERT
Lawn and Garden Authority

If the snowstorms damaged your evergreens you can tie them back together or severely prune the top to produce an attractive plant.

Some Pyramidal evergreens look like an over-used feather duster because wet snow bowed the limbs or caused major breaks. Some natural repair will occur but most plants will still be bushy-topped by next spring.

Smaller, multi-stemmed trees like pyramidal arborvitae and clump junipers can be easily repaired by tying a loop through the limbs and drawing the stems together. Use a woman's stocking or strip of soft cloth to avoid a sawing-effect on the limbs as the branches sway in the wind. Thread this "rope" through the limbs to conceal your efforts. Light pruning with hand pruners will complete your repairs.

Larger evergreens may be difficult to tie together because of their size. Extra large plants should always be compared to the size of your house. When pyramidal evergreens become taller than the eaves of a ranch style house or more than half the heighth of a two-story house, they are too-large.

This snowstorm disaster can be the final straw that causes you to cut down this oversized evergreen and start a small re-landscaping program.

You can prune 20-25 per cent off the top of valuable evergreens and reshape the sides. Single stemmed evergreens work out best. Lop-off the top 20-25 per cent by cutting close to a small green side branch. If the cut is in the "bend" portion, pick a twig that points up.

Hand trim all the side limbs to produce a junior-sized pyramid identical to the original. Be sure there is some green growth on every stub, or that stub will not develop new growth.

Before you make the first cut be sure that your selected spot is above the dead zone. Most evergreens have an inside area where the needles are brown. If your lop-off cut is in this dead-zone a new top will not develop and your tree is ruined.

Medicine mixing—a risky practice

By CATHERINE R. MAUCK
Madison County Extension Adviser—Home Economics

When your physician gives you a prescription, be certain to let him know about other drugs you are taking, says Lawrence O'Reilly, University of Illinois Extension health specialist. Medicines that are safe and effective when taken separately may cause problems when taken together.

One drug may interfere with the action of another, O'Reilly explains. Or one might make the other stronger or weaker or nullify its effects. Authorities report that there are hundreds of such drug interactions, and some can have serious consequences.

Physicians aren't always aware of medicines a patient may be taking on the advice of another doctor. And they often don't know about non-prescription medicines their patients are using. Widely used over-the-counter products are involved in some drug interactions.

"Aspirin, for example, can alter the effects of anticoagulants prescribed for heart and blood-vessel disorders," says O'Reilly. "Reports indicate that antacids can also change the effects of anticoagulants."

"Baking soda, a popular home remedy for indigestion, can interfere with amphetamine and antihistamine therapy," he adds. "One of the more serious drug combinations involves sleeping pills (barbiturates) and alcoholic beverages. Taken together, these two substances may seriously depress the central nervous system and cause death."

The best advice is to play safe, O'Reilly cautions. When given a new prescription, always tell your doctor about other prescriptions and non-prescription drugs you are taking.

Medicines classified as prescription items are available only on a physician's order. This is because their safe and effective use requires professional supervision. Unfortunately, rising costs of medicines and health care are encouraging some people to unwisely share prescriptions among family members and friends.

A prescription and its dosage are determined by a physician for an individual with a specific health or medical problem. The doctor's decision is based upon such factors as the patient's age, weight, sex, health history and diagnosis of the illness. When untrained consumers share prescriptions, they engage in potentially dangerous forms of self-diagnosis and self-treatment.

Dental course offered at SIUE

A videotaped course in continuing dental education will be offered Thursday, Jan. 10, at the Center for Professional Advancement of the Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville School of Dental Medicine, according to Dr. Richard E. Coy, director.

Dr. Coy said the course is entitled, "Unilateral Subperiosteal and Endosteal Blade Implant Procedures as Distal Abutments." It is taught by Dr. Aaron Gershkoff.

In a course description, Dr. Coy says, "The clinician performs on one patient the surgical procedures and impression techniques required for the fabrication of a unilateral subperiosteal implant to be placed at a subsequent date. On a second patient, a previously constricted superiosteal implant is placed. This patients has the forward abutment prepared prior to the placement, and the clinician at this time fabricates a temporary bridge that will adequately splint the area with due regard to occlusal requirements. On a third patient, the endosseious blade implant procedures are shown."

The videotaped course is one of a series of closed-circuit presentations made by leading dental practitioners at national and state meetings and acquired by SIUE from the education branch of the U.S. Division of Dental Health.

The course will begin at 1 p.m. at the Center on the Alton campus and will last approximately two hours. The charge for the program is $5. Registration at least two days prior to the program is requested.

Other videotaped programs will be presented in January and February, Dr. Coy said. Persons interested in obtaining a complete schedule may contact the Center for Professional Advancement.

Right turn on red light now allowed

New Year's Day brought with it a new Illinois law permitting motorists to make a right turn on a red light.

Illinois Transportation Secretary Langhorne Bond reminded motorists the new traffic regulation allows them after approaching a red traffic signal to make a right turn after coming to a complete stop and yielding to pedestrians and other vehicles.

The law also provides for left turns on a red light at certain intersections where a motorist can turn from a one-way street to another one-way street when the traffic flow is to the motorist's left.

The turns on red are prohibited at some intersections where visibility is restricted, speeds are high, school crossing signals are present or where there are other conditions that make turning on a red signal unsafe. These intersections are marked with signs reading "No Turn On Red." No signs are present at intersections where the turn on red is permitted.

Secretary Bond said this new law should help the flow of traffic at many locations throughout the state. Similar regulations in other states have worked well in preventing bottlenecks and keeping traffic moving.

Motorists and pedestrians are urged to be particularly alert at those intersections where the turn on red is allowed.

Bond emphasized that with the new law drivers must first come to a complete stop and make sure there are no pedestrians or other vehicles in the intersection before making the turn movement.

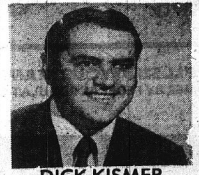

AUTO THEFT CHARGED

Gary Van Gilder, 18, of 2127 Edison Ave., was arrested at Third Street and Alton Avenue in Madison at 12:05 a.m. Sunday and was charged with theft. Danny Poston, 1606 Second St., Madison, reported a youth had started Poston's car and was about to drive away when Poston chased him from the car and on Second Street, Washington Avenue and Third Street. Police found Poston and later arrested Van Gilder.

North, South matmen in action Saturday

Four individual champions of the Granite City Holiday Wrestling Tournament will lead the Warriors of GCHS South into a triangular meet battle at 1 p.m. Saturday against East St. Louis and Springfield Southeast at South. Undefeated champion Rudy Pyle head the wrestlers of North when the Steelers clash with Jacksonville at 10 a.m. the same day at Jacksonville.

The Warriors, fresh from capturing their own tourney, will be seeking their 51st and 52nd consecutive mat victories Saturday. Expected to give the local wrestlers a good contest is Springfield Southeast which has its striking power in the 105, 132, 155, and heavyweight divisions.

Meeting those classes head-on will be: Steve Garland (105), who placed third in last week's tournament; undefeated Dan Heath (132), a holiday class champion; Brian Wilson (155), another individual champion in the holiday classic, and Heavyweight Jerry Patterson.

Ice hockey resumes

Competition in the MaClair Ice Hockey Association continues tomorrow and Saturday with the Granite City squad attempting to move up in the point standings when it meets Collinsville at 10:20 p.m. at the Wilson Park Ice Rink.

Granite City dropped to fourth place this past weekend when it lost 7-4 to Assumption of East St. Louis. Assumption maintained its second spot with that victory.

Belleville and Collinsville still remain tied in last position, Belleville lost 8-0 to first place Alton, and Collinsville dropped its game by a 4-2 decision to Wood River.

Belleville and Assumption take to the ice tomorrow at 11:45 p.m. following the Granite City-Collinsville clash. Third place Wood River will attempt to hand Alton its first loss of the season when the two teams meet at 1:10 a.m. Saturday.

A victory by the local squad and a loss by Wood River this weekend would leave the two tied in third place. A win by Wood River and a loss by Assumption would hold Granite City in the number four spot.

Coach Fletcher said he thinks young Fletcher, Steve Pace, Dan Hayes and Robert Barker are sure starters tomorrow. The remaining starting position is still up for grabs with four players vieing for the spot, Mike Birch, Robert Peques, Gary Shasteen and Steve Cochran.

Shasteen, who last year was the sophomore squad's leading scorer, has just recovered from an appendectomy and Cochran, who lead last season's junior varsity team in points, has just become eligible to play.

The Warriors will be lead by letterman Mike Martinez who had a combined total of 45 points in the Pontiac tourney, 36 of them in the first round game against Waukegan. Complementing him on the court will be Tom Schooley, Terry Hollis, Dale Williams, and Ken Bertrand.

The South-Collinsville clash will be held at the new Fletcher Gymnasium which is located one-half mile east of Route 157 on Ill. Route 30 on the new Greenwood Campus.

The Steelers of North, now 4-3, will meet the Lancers of Belleville East Saturday at Belleville. The Lancers' season record, 2-4, does not reflect its overaall performances as they defeated Thornridge 57-55 in the opening rounds at Carbondale before bowing 57-53 in overtime to the eventual champion, Alton, in quarterfinal action.

Cage squads on the road

Only two of the four local cage squads will see post-tournament action this weekend. Granite City High School South will carry its 0-7 record against the 10-1 Collinsville Kahoks at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow at Collinsville, and GCHS North will be at Belleville at 8:15 p.m. Saturday to meet the 2-4 Belleville East Lancers.

South's Warriors dropped their sixth and seventh games over the holidays at the Pontiac Cage Tournament, 62-58 to Waukegan and 73-45 to Glenbard West, while the Collinsville Kahoks were being denied a back-to-back championship at Carbondale by the Alton Redbirds. Alton upset the Kahoks 81-78 to capture the crown.

Kahok Coach Virgil Fletcher told the Press-Record, "We always expect a good game with South. Even though the Warriors haven't won a game this season," he added, that doesn't mean we won't be their first victim."

The Warriors, in seeking their first season victory, could not have been matched with a more deadly opponent than Collinsville.

Not only do the Kahoks have a record setting senior guard in Marc Fletcher, who tallied 48, 37, and 35 points in the Carbondale games, Collinsville is an almost perfect team from the free throw line, hitting on 30 in 39 attempts in its title loss to Alton.

Led by 6-1 senior Craig Agne and 6-4 Ken Light, Belleville is a low scoring team which is averaging only 33 per cent from the field but is dynamite on defense. From the free throw line, Belleville made good 19 of 26 attempted against Thornridge.

The Lancers' greatest victory this season was a 63-61 win over the crosstown rival Belleville Althoff, a game in which the Lancers made only 23 of 69 field goals attempted but made up for it by forcing 18 enemy turnovers.

North had perhaps its greatest hour of the season as a new cage squad when it downed Robinson High School 60-54 in the first round of the Edwardsville Holiday Classic last week, before falling to the host school 69-54 in the quarterfinals.

Expected to join the three on the court are Mike Waldo and Cary Simpson.

Venice High, which captured its second consecutive tournament crown at Columbia during the weekend, is idle until Saturday, Jan. 12, when it plays host to Valmeyer.

The Madison Trojans, runners-up in the Edwardsville tourney, will host Okawville on Tuesday, Jan. 8.

A major 1974 challenge is the need for more complete representation in the decisions directly, indirectly affecting this area of Illinois

A 1974 challenge facing the Quad-Cities and the Illinois portion of the St. Louis metropolitan area is how to gain more equitable representation in decisions affecting Illinoisans.

Closely allied to this need is the desirability of a "voice" for the Illinois populated area, this state's largest concentration of population after the Chicago area.

The voice could respond promptly when issues arise that justify an immediate response. It was provided for several years by the "Mecca" organization of Chamber of Commerce presidents, Chamber managers and newspapermen of the Madison and St. Clair Counties region, but that group no longer meets.

Illinois Metro East, primarily an industrial development corporation, perhaps can be part of the answer. Its present name unfortunately perpetuates the "East" terminology which illustrates the representation problem.

Instead of a continuous "East Side" settled area with East St. Louis at the hub, the two counties instead are composed of highly diverse, widely separated communities, the four largest of which are East St. Louis, the Quad-Cities, the Belleville area and the Alton-Wood River region.

The successes and failures differ within each such community, but all continue to be lumped together and tarred daily with the same "east side" brush.

The "east" generalization also communicates the point that, rather than having their own individual identities, Southwestern Illinois cities and villages are notable mainly because they are situated east of the largest Missouri city.

Compounding the problem is the pattern followed in setting up the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council and also the proposed St. Louis Area Council of Governments.

The East St. Louis mayor is given permanent membership but Granite City, Alton and Belleville are omitted, nor is there a system for rotating representation within major communities.

The latter plan might include a system providing for a single rotating position for the mayors of Granite City, Madison, Venice and Pontoon Beach; another post shared alternately by the mayors of Alton, Wood River, East Alton, etc.; and another position for municipalities in the Belleville area.

Instead of some reasonable representation system such as that described, the bi-state area has a much smaller nucleus of "spokesmen" these days.

When increased business for this metropolitan area was being sought in Japan this fall, the delegation was dominated by St. Louis, St. Louis County and East St. Louis officials.

When a major bi-state water resource study was launched in mid-December, those most prominently involved were St. Louis Mayor Poelker, St. Louis County Supervisor Lawrence Roos and East St. Louis Mayor Williams.

When a major effort was started in late December to seek designation as an international gateway for trans-Atlantic air service, the four parties involved were the St. Louis and East St. Louis mayors, the St. Louis County supervisor and the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association.

While many of these activities may be constructive, the clear pattern has been to convey the impression that there has been adequate coordination, input and involvement for the Madison-St. Clair Counties area, which is untrue.

If there is to be reality rather than a mere surface image of both-sides-of-the-river communication and cooperation, some means of genuine and thorough contacts and representation must be established.

Township mergers to be voted on but most seem likely to be rejected

One of the Madison County issues to be decided in 1974 is whether some of the sparsely-populated townships should be consolidated. The November ballot will include proposals to merge Omphghent, Olive and New Douglas townships; Alhambra and Leef; and St. Jacob and Marine.

Illinois, still the "leader" among the 50 states in the number of its local-level governmental bodies, took a somewhat weak stance on the issue while requiring counties to hold such referendums.

Elimination of townships having less than $6 million assessed valuation is being recommended by the state as an economy measure, but no tax or aid "sweeteners" were offered by the Illinois government, contrasting with the approach used in its successful move in the late 1940s to reduce the number of "one-classroom" school districts.

As a result, township merger balloting will take place in 86 counties but the proposed changes are expected to be voted down in this county and many other counties due to the lack of enthusiasm that has been generated.

With annual sessions by legislature, state government costs have tripled

Editor's Note: Five years ago, Illinois lawmakers decided to meet annually instead of every two years. The new practice, it was hoped, would enable the members to better cope with the ever-increasing problems of our growing society. This is the first of two articles giving the pro and con on whether annual legislative sessions should continue. State Treasurer Alan Dixon, a Democrat from Belleville, says the move may be a mistake. The veteran politician with 20 years of legislative experience under his belt, claims the cost of state government has tripled as a direct result of yearly legislative sessions.

By RAND T. THOMAS

Q.: Would you review briefly your recent criticism of the General Assembly?

Dixon: As you know my criticism is leveled at the process not at individual persons — I hope that is understood. My criticism falls into two basic parts, annual sessions as we know them now, and secondly the procedural operation of the legislature itself when it is in session. For all the years I was a member of the General Assembly I opposed annual sessions though they were being promoted by a number of people. I have always contended the cost of the government would grow in direct proportion to the number of days the legislature was in session. I contend that has been true. We went to annual session five years ago and in that time the cost of state government has almost tripled. The last time we had bi-annual sessions the cost for two years of government was $4.7 billion or about $2.35 billion per year. Since we've gone to annual sessions the price after five years has gone up to 1?4 billion for one year of government. This has occurred not so much because of the legislature itself being in session, though that cost has gone up too, but basically because when the general assembly is in session it's bound to pass a lot of programs and every new program costs a lot of money.

Q.: What is your specific recommendation to correct or limit state spending?

Dixon: I think first we should abolish annual sessions. We ought to do it constitutionally. I am aware of the fact that it can be done statutorily and I am aware there is some thought within the legislature that it ought to be done that way. I'm frank to say that I just don't think the members will be strong enough to resist the temptation to fall back into their old ways if you do it by statute. But if you do it by a constitutional amendment and provide that the regular session will be held in odd numbered years from Jan. 1 through June 30, then, in the odd numbered years sessions could be limited to 60 or 90 days and restricted to the consideration of fiscal matters. I think that would take care of all the business that the state requires without any difficulty. There are those who say what would happen if an emergency came up? The answer is a simple one. The governor has the right to call a special session as well as the legislative leadership.

Q.: What is to prevent the legislature from becoming bogged down with special sessions as some say it is now?

Dixon: I think it would not happen because the constitution would make it very clear that all you could have in odd numbered years is a restricted fiscal session devoted to budgetary matters.

Q.: But you said the governor and the legislative leaders should still have the power to call special sessions —?

Dixon: Well, I think if they called a special session for a special purpose they would obviously be entitled to consider what was on the call. I don't think you can avoid the necessity for special sessions because emergencies can arise anytime.

Q.: Would a constitutional change hamstring future legislatures that might find a need to hold annual unrestricted sessions?

Dixon: No. I honestly think a great deal of time is wasted in these continuous sessions. I've called for adoption of very strict rule changes that would require bills to be introduced by a certain date, be heard in committee by a certain date and so on. . . . And if those rules are not conformed to, that bill would be out the window — that's all. There would be no exceptions for Gov. Walker, Alan Dixon, Speaker Blair or Senate President Harris. I believe this would work. The legislature spends a lot of time right now debating what special session they're in and I don't think that's of importance to the people.

Q.: Would you like to see a limitation on the number of bills introduced?

Dixon: No I would not. I think that in effect what I am proposing would limit the bills. You see what happens now is that by having annual sessions every time the General Assembly comes back, each lawmaker who made a promise back in his district introduces the proper pet bills. All these bills keep accumulating because exceptions are made to the rules and the calendar keeps growing and growing and growing. This multiplies the number of bills being considered to the point where nobody could possibly consider them intelligently.

Q.: Do you think annual sessions have produced an overabundance of professional lawmakers?

Dixon: It's a possibility. I know a good many men have quit because they felt they were spending too much time in the legislative process here. . . . I think there is a possibility that qualified men might not seek office. . . . But that's not of overriding importance in connection with annual sessions. To me it's a direct cost thing. I am simply and positively convinced that . . . there is a direct ratio between the cost of government and the days the legislature is in session. . . . I really believe it, I would never advocate a proposal which I thought would impair the responsibility of useful government service. . . . Sometimes it just isn't true that new things are better. In the case of the legislature I honestly think that in six months they can do the things that have to be done. And they would come back in the off years for fiscal matters or emergencies.

Q.: Do you feel that the fall legislative session got bogged down in politics?

Dixon: Let me say this. Most things that a lot of people are screaming about are absolutely necessary at one given point in time or another. But it really isn't as important as we think it is — and I don't mean this in a callous way. I know that every session I was involved in, over a 20 year span, something always captivated the imagination of reporters and newspaper editors. . . . The truth of the matter is that in every one of those instances — and it was rare — when the legislature "failed and didn't respond," government got along just fine. Everybody got along just fine. Nothing happened that was horrendous at all. I'm persuaded that short of national emergencies — war and pestilence and things of that sort, most of the crises are colorful exaggerations of fact.

'Time bomb' in Social Security?

By ARCH BOOTH
Executive Vice-President
Chamber of Commerce
of the United States

One year ago I wrote a column warning that Social Security taxes were going up, effective with your first paycheck of the new year.

It looks like that is going to become an annual tradition.

Last year both the tax rate and the wage base (amount of money on which tax is paid) went up.

This year, it's just the wage base that's being raised—from $10,800 perhaps to as much as $13,200.

In other words, if you make more than $10,800, you will be paying more Social Security tax in 1974. The maximum amount of the tax goes up from $631.80 to $772.20 for an employe. His employer has to match that.

The new tax increases are needed to finance a two-stage increase in Social Security voted by Congress. Benefits will go up a total of 11 per cent.

About 30 million Social Security recipients will get the increase. The bill for it will have to be paid by the 80 million people who earn more than $10,800.

Contrary to what is commonly believed, increases in Social Security benefits are way ahead of inflation.

For example, between January 1970 and July 1, 1974, the Consumer Price Index will have increased by a little over 24 per cent. In the same period, Social Security benefits will have gone up 68.5 per cent.

A column like this will get me letters—some of them heartrending—from Social Security recipients who have led exemplary lives and believe they "deserve" the increase. It's hard to quarrel with that. The problem is that the government cannot "give" anyone anything it has not first taken away from someone else.

So, while there are undoubtedly people who "deserve" the benefit increase, there are also people who do not "deserve" the tax increase necessary to pay for it.

As some philosopher said, most debates about values are not debates between right and wrong but between rights and rights—and this makes their resolution endlessly complicated.

One might also question the morality of Congress raising the Social Security tax for the rest of us, while exempting itself, its employes and the employes of the federal government.

The pat answer is that government employes have their own pension plan, to which they contribute a part of their pay. Well, so what? Many employes in the private sector also pay into private pension plans, and they have to pay Social Security taxes, too.

Federal employes are now the largest single group exempted from Social Security taxes.

Beyond the moral questions, moreover, there's a practical reason for worrying about the Social Security increases.

Social Security recipients are now getting back far more than they paid in Social Security taxes during their working lives, even counting interest.

The most a worker could have paid in taxes since the program's inception is $8,271. At maximum 1974 benefit levels, in a little over 18 months this worker would get back everything he put in.

Now, here's the real problem.

Today's higher benefits are being paid out of higher taxes on today's workers. That system works fairly well as long as there are more people working, and therefore paying Social Security taxes, than there are benefit recipients.

But what would happen if there were more recipients than working taxpayers, as has happened in the Railroad Retirement Program?

As you probably know, our birthrate has been dropping sharply. We now appear to be headed for a condition of zero population growth sometime in the future.

ZPG is desirable—necessary—for many reasons. But it has the potential for raising havoc with Social Security, because there will be fewer young workers to support a larger aged population.

What happens then? Will the smaller (relatively speaking) working population be able to carry the burden? Will the recipients stand for a cutback in payments? Will the system collapse?

These are very serious questions. Someday, we will be forced to answer them.

Until then, it looks like Congress will go on raising both the benefit levels and the tax, as though there's no tomorrow.

Sees heavy taxation, few services

To the Editor:

I read in the Dec. 27 edition of the Press-Record that the city spent $14,000 for snow removal. Where?

I drove and walked over a large portion of the city and never even saw any salt or cinders on the corners; yet, they claim $6,000 for salt and cinders. Where did they put it?

Employe overtime costing $10,000 for what? I saw one truck going down the street doing nothing.

As a taxpayer and homeowner in Granite City, I am getting tired of higher taxes at all levels and nothing for these taxes.

Every election, we hear how taxes are high enough. But no matter who is elected, it is always the same—more tax money for the politicians and less for our money.

I think all the taxpayers should protest the constant abuse of their money.

BENTON STREET MAN

Many people thirst for spiritual uplift

To the Editor:

An interview I heard a couple of weeks ago on radio and television, prompted me to write this open letter to the residents of Granite City.

Through this one letter I hope to interest my friends in Granite City, and also anyone else who might care to help me do something for the mission field that I cannot do alone.

I heard the Rev. Kathryn Kuhlman interview a woman judge from Ghana, West Africa. A book, "I believe in Miracles," written by Kathryn Kuhlman, had been placed in the hands of this woman from Ghana.

She said she was so hungry for the things of God that she actually read the book between 30 and 40 times.

I know how these people thirst after spiritual things because from 1968 to 1971 I helped a young minister from Ghana with the help of many of you from Granite City.

I saw this minister, when he listened to a sermon on the radio, listen to the entire message on his knees.

I saw him sit up all night and read books from my library. He also read these on his knees.

He told about the deep spiritual hunger of his people in Africa.

Through this open letter, I am appealing to my friends—to every man, woman, boy and girl—to help me ship 100 of my books into Ghana, 100 into India and another 100 into another needy area.

I want to give 300 of my books to the people of these countries. But I need financial help to do this.

It takes $27.00 to ship 11 pounds into Africa; 35 books will weigh 11 pounds, so I will have to send 3 boxes to get the 100 books into Africa.

This, of course, is air-mail. It takes months to get anything there by sea.

I have everything packed and ready to go. I will be able to channel the books into the most needful areas. They can be read, and passed on.

If you the people of Granite City will send a donation to me to help me get the books shipped into these countries, each of you will be an instrument that God will use to spread His word.

If they write their name and address, I will acknowledge each donation.

I also want to put a list of the names of those who gave in each box, that the recipients might know you cared enough to help.

Right to impose standard of morality

To the Editor:

I also have been following our local abortion dispute with great interest. If Granite City allows an abortion clinic, what will come next? A euthanasia center?

A recent pro-abortion letter to you stated, "I do challenge their right to impose their standards of morality on me." This is pure nonsense.

If any citizen murders another, that is a moral matter. Though it is a private matter between victim and murderer, it is also a public moral matter. Murder is, therefore, a moral matter for public concern, as is abortion.

A society has to impose standards at some point, to avoid total chaos.

Most Americans agree that human life is sacred. That is why murder is illegal. That is why abortion should be prohibited.

The opening of an abortion clinic is a waste. A waste of years of training doctors to save lives. A waste of badly-needed blood supplies. A waste of energy in this time of power crisis. A waste of human lives.

I applaud the City Council and its actions to keep legalized murder out of our community. So abortion is legal; so is war, but that doesn't make it pretty.

Our community needs abortion like it needs war—not at all.

It is our duty to show the City Council members that they have the support of the community in their actions to keep legalized murder out of Granite City.

Happy with Ford as Vice President

To the Editor:

I expect that most people in America had their first good night's sleep after we elected Gerald Ford as vice president. We know that we are only one step away from disaster when there was no vice president.

The same interests that supported the first special prosecutor and the Watergate Committee forced the resignation of many of the administration's top aides for the sole purpose of trying to get to the President, regardless of how many careers they ruined and regardless of the cost to the taxpayers.

The Watergate investigation has now cost the taxpayers $5 million and we do not know what it has accomplished.

We should be very grateful to President Nixon for his determination and ability to carry on the greatest responsibility of our government in spite of the great burden those who opposed him have placed on him and the taxpayers.

President Nixon has throughout the Watergate ordeal realized that the office of the President and the American system must be stronger than all attacks upon them from within or from outside the boundaries of the United States.

Vice President Ford is in agreement with the President. We now have two of the greatest men in our country to lead us.

May we pray that God will lead them and that they will lead America in accordance with His teachings.

Value of 'open market' coupons would depend on this region's supply and demand for gasoline

GASOLINE CONSUMPTION AND DISTRIBUTION.

Sixty-seven per cent of the gasoline in this country is sold for use in private vehicles; 30 per cent of it goes for business and commercial use. The remaining 3 per cent is sold to state, local and federal government units.

Gasoline is distributed in two ways: bulk and retail.

The bulk market serves those who buy gasoline in large quantities and have their own storage tanks. This includes agricultural and industrial users, commercial vehicle fleets, etc.

The supplier provides the gasoline on a contract basis and maintains sales records for each bulk customer.

Commercial bulk sales are approximately 16 per cent of total sales, with bulk sales to federal, state and local government units estimated at an additional 3 per cent.

Gasoline is also sold in bulk to retail outlets, which in turn, serve individual customers, primarily personal cars and some commercial operations.

Records of sales to individual customers are not generally kept by retailers on any systematic basis.

Retail sales of gasoline for commercial use are about 14 per cent of total sales; retail sales for private use are 67 per cent of the total.

All purchases of gasoline at retail outlets will be made through the rationing system if it goes into effect.

All those who purchase gasoline in bulk, as defined in the proposed mandatory allocation regulations, will obtain their supplies according to priorities set in the allocation system. No coupons will be required for such bulk purchases.

COUPON PRODUCTION.

Gasoline coupons will be printed by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing; they will be monochromatic, with the color changing every 30 days.

They will be about a third the size of a dollar bill, and printed from line engraved plates using the intaglio process.

These features are currently used in the production of paper currency to limit counterfeiting.

Space will be provided on each coupon for the user's signature and a license plate number.

Each coupon will be worth a certain number of gallons of gasoline.

The gallons per coupon allowed for any month will be the same across the nation; however, the amount may be changed from month to month, depending on the availability of gasoline.

COUPON DISTRIBUTION.

Coupons will be distributed to all Americans 18 years or older who hold valid driver licenses.

The number of coupons which each person receives each month will vary according to the population density of the area where he lives, a surrogate measure for average current needs.

The average distribution will amount to 32 to 35 gallons per month per person.

The distribution formula will be weighted to take into account such factors as the availability of mass transit facilities, the concentration of places of employment, and urban vs. rural differences in essential personal automobile usage.

Each person will be mailed an authorization card by the motor vehicle department within the state; this card will indicate driver's license number and current address, including Zip code.

It will also bear the name of the state in which it is issued, and may only be used within that state to pick up coupons.

To receive his issue of gasoline coupons for the month, each person will present his authorization card and his driver's license at the distribution point; he will be charged $1 for his packet of coupons.

Negotiations are under way to determine these points; banks and post offices are likely candidates.

When the monthly coupons are picked up, the authorization card will be punched to indicate this. A record of the receipt of coupons will be kept.

Military personnel may use an out-of-state authorization card, with evidence of local residence and a military identification card, to obtain coupons in their state of residence.

Since all gasoline sold at retail outlets must be accounted for by coupons, special arrangements will be made for commercial and other priority users who need additional coupons as part of normal business in order to bring them to parity with their counterparts who buy in bulk.

Certification and validation procedures will be used for distributing the correct number of ration coupons to commercial and other priority users.

USE OF COUPONS.

The coupon is an entitlement to buy gasoline, and gasoline cannot be sold unless the purchaser has valid coupons to give to the retail outlet.

The station operator may only pump the quantity of gasoline fixed for each coupon, although several coupons may be used for one purchase.

At the time of purchase, each driver will sign his name and license plate number on the coupon, thus preventing its reuse.

The coupons will be freely exchanged on the open market. A coupon will be good for 60 days.

The market value of a coupon will depend on local supply and demand.

The out-of-pocket cost of gasoline for individual purchasers will depend on the number of coupons used:

1. Consumers who limit their driving to the rationed amount will simply pay the gasoline price at the pump.

2. Those consumers buying less gasoline than their rationed amount will be paying the pump price. They will receive income from the sale of unused coupons.

3. Those consumers buying more gasoline than their rationed amount will be paying an extra amount for this consumption. The out-of-pocket cost of gasoline in excess of their ration will be the pump price plus the cost of the additional coupons bought on the local exchanges.

COUPON EXCHANGE.

The buying and selling of coupons provides the means for determining priorities and needs in this system.

Trading will be informal and market roles will quickly develop, with trading points determined by local custom and the volume of gasoline business in the area.

The exchange of coupons introduces a limited free-market approach to rationing.

This contrasts with the World War II systems in which a large public bureaucracy was used to decide hundreds of thousands of questions about individual need for gasoline.

COLLECTION OF COUPONS.

Negotiations are being held with banking institutions to provide accounting and supporting services.

As currently envisioned, each retail outlet operator will collect the coupons for the quantity of gasoline sold and turn them in to his bank.

Coupon receipts will be forwarded to the wholesale supplier to validate claims for specific quantities of gasoline.

Banks will safeguard used coupons, store them for a certain period of time, and eventually dispose of them.

EXCEPTIONS.

Each state will hold coupons representing up to 3 per cent of the quantity of gasoline available in the state for each month.

These coupons will be used by the state to provide relief in cases of exceptional hardship.

Each state will decide whether to handle exceptions through a system of local boards or on a centralized basis.

ADMINISTRATIVE REQUIREMENTS.

A transferable coupon system may have an administrative structure at three levels:

A. Local.

Local boards may be set up by the states to adjudicate appeals for variances to the federal guidelines governing individual ration allotments.

The local boards will have an emergency supply of coupons to meet special cases of unusual need, such as jurors required to appear in a court several hundred miles for their homes.

Their size, composition and location will be determined by the governor, acting in accordance with federal guidelines.

The federal government will finance one board per county or equivalent, although more may be set up by the state at its discretion.

B. State.

Overall management of the state allocation of gasoline will be the responsibility of the states.

State boards will also be responsible for the management and control of local boards and for adjudicating appeals from local board decisions.

C. Federal.

Functions at the federal level include setting guidelines for ration allotments, monitoring the enforcement system, producing coupons, and auditing and accounting for coupons. Gallonage valuation of coupons each month will also be federally determined.

Annual cost estimates for such a system are:

Printing $32 million.
Distribution $975 million.
Collection $75 million.
Administration: Federal (500 employes) $10 million; State (50 employes per state) $50 million; Local (5 employes per board, 3000 boards) $270 million; Total yearly cost $1,412,000,000.

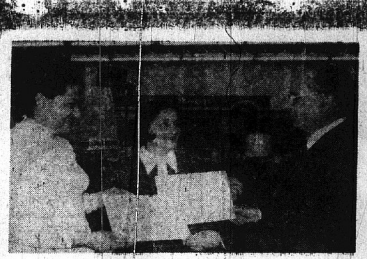

These costs are to be fully offset by charging $1 per coupon packet at the point of issue.

Annual state soya princess contest

Illinois' seventh Princess Soya will be selected during ceremonies at the Illinois Crop Improvement Assn. Soybean Conference Jan. 28 at Holiday Inn East, Springfield.

Candidates must be at least 18 and not more than 25 years of age by July 1, 1974. To qualify, a contestant must be single, at least five feet two inches tall, a high school graduate and, preferably, have a farm background. Candidates must be state residents but can be attending school out of state.

Contestants will be judged on appearance, maturity, public speaking ability, personality, poise, basic knowledge of food and nutrition and familiarity with soybean production, processing or usage. Finalists are to be attired in street wear rather than swimsuits or formals for judging.

The Illinois Princess Soya will be eligible to compete for the title of American Princess Soya at the American Soybean Assn. annual convention Aug. 12-14 in Houston, Tex. Last year, Miss Christy Carter, Eldred, Illinois Princess Soya, was chosen for the national title. Rain, snow hit 41.7 inch mark

The heaviest rain and snowfall in recent history brought 41.72 inches of precipitation to the Quad-City area during 1973—about 24 inches of it in snowfall to wind up the year in December.

The total of 41.72 inches of precipitation was 7.27 inches above the year's total normal fall of 34.45 inches, and 5.69 inches above the 1972 precipitation total of 36.03 inches.

December's snowfall, most of which occurred after Dec. 19, was the heaviest in many years, including between 12 and 13 inches of snow that fell on Dec. 19 and 20, and another 10.5 inches that fell on the evening of Dec. 30.

Twenty-four inches of snow is equivalent to 2.4 inches of precipitation on the basis of .10 of an inch of precipitation to one inch of snow, the average formula used by the weather bureau in computing snowfall.

Weather bureau officials said, however, that the water content of snow can vary from five to one to 20 to one, depending upon the density of the snow.

Heaviest rainfall of the year occurred in August when 7.47 inches of rain fell. Normal rainfall for that month is 3.02 inches. A total of 5.99 inches of rain fell in June, compared to a 4.27-inch normal, and 4.91 inches of rainfall were recorded in March, compared with a normal of 2.34 inches.

In addition to the snowfall after Dec. 19, traces of snow (amounts too light to be recorded) were registered on Dec. 10 and Dec. 16.

Precipitation records for 1973, with the monthly normal in parenthesis, include:

January-1.08 (1.98); February-.58 (2.04); March-4.91 (2.34); April-3.33 (3.71); May-2.31 (3.73); June-5.99 (4.27); July-2.60 (3.20); August-7.47 (3.02); September-3.85 (2.76); October-1.48 (2.86); November-3.89 (2.57); December-3.43 (1.97).

Robert Eckley speaker for McKendree dinner

Robert S. Eckley, president of Illinois Wesleyan University at Bloomington, will speak at the fifth annual McKendree College Appreciation Dinner.

The dinner will be held Feb. 16 at 7 p.m. at Fischer's Restaurant, 2100 West Main St., Belleville. Tickets are $10 each.

Eckley was manager of the business economics department of Caterpillar Tractor Co. from 1954 to 1968, when he was chosen president of Illinois Wesleyan.

A Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Bradley University in Peoria, he received a master's in business administration from the University of Minnesota and a master's degree and doctor's degree in economics from Harvard.

President Eckley taught at Bradley, Harvard, and the University of Kansas before becoming an industrial economist for the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City in 1951, a position he held until he joined Caterpillar.

Active both in academic and business circles, President Eckley also has found time to be a religious leader as well. He was first vice-president of the Illinois Council of Churches from 1968 to 1970, serves as a trustee of the Methodist Hospital of Central Illinois, is a former president of the Bradley United Christian Foundation, former vice-president of the Peoria Area Council of Churches, and a former member of the Peoria Mayor's Commission on Human Resources. He also has been active in his home United Methodist Church.

The annual McKendree Appreciation Dinner is unique in that it is both an opportunity to show community appreciation for the only four-year private college left south of U.S. 40, and a way for McKendree to show appreciation for the support it has received from the community.

"Really, it is sort of a family thing, for the McKendree family," McKendree President Eric N. Rackham said. Those interested in the future of McKendree on and off campus have an enjoyable dinner together, visit, and hear a stimulating speaker who addresses the common interests of the group, he said.

Tickets for the dinner will be available at the college development office or from trustees.

Music world—Hard work led to Pointers' success

"You better believe it was tough getting started and it's also rough keeping it up too," said Anita Pointer. "You have to work just as hard to keep up the pace."

Anita, along with her sisters Ruth, Bonnie and June make up the Pointer Sisters, one of the most dynamic and fastest rising groups in contemporary music.

They had finished filming part of the second annual "New Year's Rockin' Eve '74" TV special which is sponsored by Dr. Pepper.

Immediately following the filming, the sisters launched a tour of one-nighters across the country, introducing their debut album for Blue Thumb Records called simply "The Pointer Sisters."

Although the pace has been frantic, the Oakland grown girls are stealing shows and winning new friends and fans every step of the way as they romp through cuts from the L.P. like "Jada," "Sugar," "Cloudburst" and "Yes We Can Can."

Reared in a strict religious family, which didn't allow them to listen to the radio except to hear hymns, their music nevertheless flows freely and easily. Harmonies, which they work out themselves, are delivered in a flawless, fluid manner, something most groups have trouble doing.

"So far we haven't run into any drawbacks from not having heard much popular music until we were in high school," said Anita. "The main thing, I guess, is not being aware of names and artists. But our songs are ideas taken from our heads, not stuff we've picked up from others, so it's really to our advantage."

Another plus for the Pointers is their nostalgic attire of the late '30s and early '40s. The visual effect of flower-print, floor-length dresses along with long fluttering boas has a stunning effect on audiences.

"A lot of people say that the ladies who come to the shows just sit there talking about what we have on, more than listening to the music," Anita said. "Well, that may be true, but we played in Berkeley for a week and wore Levis and peddle-pushers. It really tripped everybody out because they were expecting us to be all dressed up. But it gave them a chance to hear our music and they loved us. It was our way of letting them know that it's not just the way we look, but that we really do sing and work hard to sing good. We just wanted to be recognized as good singers.

The success the girls are now enjoying comes from much hard work. Their natural progression and tightness is the result of working as a backup group for people like Boz Scaggs, Tower of Power, Cold Blood and Taj Mahal, to mention a few. They have now reached a level where offers are rolling in, many of them for television appearances.

"I like TV as a change from live audiences, but I don't think I'd like getting stuck into one medium or the other," said Anita. "We find TV to be very restricting, because when we do our show live we don't really have a lot of choreographed moves; everything is done naturally.

"In TV you have to make every move and every word so that they can put them on cue cards. We can't do a lot we would normally do since it would foul up the camera action.

"But it is a change from the regular routine of doing shows every night, and I love it. Besides it's something to learn, and we like to learn."

Exhibit earns contest award

"Christmas Means," an art exhibit accompanied by a written explanation, earned an honorable mention for James Riskovsky Jr., 11, of 1617 Sixth St., Madison, in the Ralston Purina Christmas Art Contest last week.

"Here's What I See in Christmas" was the theme of the contest, in which children's artwork was sponsored by Ralston Purina employes.

The boy's father, James Riskovsky Sr., sponsored him.

He is a sixth grade student at Louis Baer Elementary School in Madison. The text of his description of "Christmas Means" follows:

"Christmas means a winter snow, as most people know. It means no sun for light, and, also, you can't fight. Or you know who, won't like you.

"Hold that winter smile! Everyone should get the style."

HONORABLE MENTION WINNER in the Ralston Purina Christmas art contest is James Riskovsky Jr., 11, of 161[illegible] Sixth St., Madison. The art piece prepared by Riskovsky was accompanied by a written discription entitled "Christmas Means."

Will both parties nominate Illinoisans for President?

By KEN WATSON
Press-Record
Springfield Bureau

Springfield — For Illinois Democrats, 1974 is shaping up as the year of Stevenson.

The feeling is growing beneath the Statehouse Dome that before the year is over, U.S. Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson, 43, will have emerged from relative obscurity to the national prominence once held by his illustrious father, Illinois Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson and twice Democratic candidate for President of the United States.

There are even some who see young Stevenson following his father's footsteps and becoming the Democratic candidate for President in 1976.

They predict that where the elder Stevenson twice failed, the younger Adlai will ride a continuing Democratic tide into the White House itself.

To fulfill the promise that supporters see for him, Stevenson must win a full six-year Senate term in convincing fashion. He will probably have to do even better than he did in 1970 when he defeated the late Republican Ralph Tyler Smith of Alton to win the unexpired term of deceased Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, a Republican from Pekin, by 545,336 votes.

Half-a-million votes is a big plurality in Illinois, but it pales when compared to the massive 1972 pluralities rolled up by two Republicans, Atty. Gen. William J. Scott, 1,285,095, and U.S. Sen. Charles H. Percy, 1,146,047.

It is against Percy that the political potency of Stevenson will be measured.

Chuck Percy, 60, is already off and running for the GOP Presidential nomination. Watchers across the nation will study the Illinois vote returns to determine which man would carry this pivotal Midwest state, should they be matched in a 1976 version of the historic Lincoln-Douglas contest of more than a century ago.

Stevenson is heavily favored to win re-election over respected Republican foe George M. Burditt of La Grange, a former state legislator and prominent Chicago area lawyer.

But it is considered doubtful if he can match the 1972 Percy showing, even in what looks like a decidedly Democratic year in this state.

Stevenson must win big if he is to truly become a serious contender for the 1976 Presidential nomination. He is probably going to have to do the job himself.

He enjoys an uneasy truce with Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, but the mayor's political troops—if not His Honor, himself—are known to be far from enamored with Adlai.

Although they would like to see Stevenson win and stay in tistant Washington, there is no inclination to see him become more than a U.S. senator.

As for Democratic Gov. Daniel Walker, it is accepted at the Statehouse that he wants to run for President himself and would be quietly pleased if Burditt gave Adlai a scare at the polls.

Stevenson, of course, is well aware of all this and will be, in the main, running a one-man campaign, perhaps not so much against Burditt as against that mythical big political computer in Washington which grades the scores of those who would be President.

But if Stevenson can win big in his home state, supporters see him as a "natural" for 1976 when voters presumably will still be looking for a "new face" but also one with a respected name.

Stevenson, they reason, would really have only one man to beat for the Presidential nomination, U.S. Sen. Edward "Ted" Kennedy. Beneath the Statehouse Dome, there are more than a few who think that he can do it.

Ask the Governor

Q. I would like to know how you are encouraging the public to conserve fuel. Are you enacting any laws to help save our fuel? What are you, personally, doing to save fuel?

A. I appreciate the interest and concern expressed in your recent letter. The fuel shortage is affecting the people of Illinois as well as the nation. Numerous conservation measures have been suggested in the past few months as Americans search for ways to curb our tremendous energy appetite. It is in the best interest of everyone to suggest and implement ways of conserving our valuable energy resources.

We in government are the ones to assume leadership in energy conservation and to set a practical example for consumers and other levels of government.

I have ordered immediate implementation of an austerity fuel conservation plan throughout the offices and agencies under my authority. This program requires state employees driving stateowned cars to observe a maximum speed limit of 50 mph (other than police or emergency vehicles). Also, state employees using state-owned cars are to make every effort to assure that cars are used to transport at least two persons including the driver.

We are requiring all state building occupants to lower the thermostats to 69 degrees or lower; all departments are cutting back on their use of state owned vehicles; employees are to turn off lights when leaving their offices and many other similar steps have been ordered.

As you may remember, I got rid of the state's limousines and now no director drives a monster limousine.

I have met several times with top officials of utility and power companies on the fuel problem. One of the agreements we reached was that the utilities would suggest fuel conservation steps and will not urge or advertise for increased use of fuel.

We inaugurated an agriculture hot line to help farmers find fuel in the event their suppliers run short.

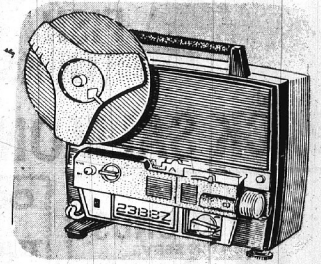

I could go on, but the list should be sufficient. I want to emphasize, though, that there is very little a state can do. We must look to Washington for help and thus far, I regret to say, all we have had is confusion.

Gov. Dan Walker invites you to question him about state government and what state government should be doing for people. All questions will be answered by Gov. Walker and some of the questions and answers will appear, probably condensed, in this column. Letters must be signed and an address provided. Upon request, your name will be withheld. Send to: ASK THE GOVERNOR, Illinois Information Service, 201 W. Monroe St., Springfield, Illinois 62706.

Free glaucoma screenings at Gaslight Plaza Monday

Pontoon Beach Lions Club officers are urging all residents of the Quad-Cities to take advantage of free glaucoma screenings which will be held in Gaslight Plaza Shopping Center from 9 a.m. to noon Monday.

The tests will be given free of charge to all persons 35 years of age and older in order to detect unsuspected cases of glaucoma, a disease of the eyes which may lead to blindness.

The unit is staffed and operated by professional people of the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness in cooperation with the Lions Clubs.

Designed and built in 1969 through gifts raised by Lions Clubs throughout Illinois, the unit now has tested more than 160,000 Illinois citizens, and as a result about 2,000 have been warned that their eye pressure is sufficiently high to warrant a complete eye examination.

In the first stages, glaucoma shows no symptoms. With the increasing span there has been a serious increase in its incidence in the last few years. It is now estimated that more than 100,000 people in Illinois have the disease.

David Moss, president of the Pontoon Beach Lions Club, which is co-sponsoring the screenings here, declared that every person over 35 should make arrangements to take the free tests.

No appointments are necessary, he said. A person needs only to go to the Mobile Unit at Gaslight Plaza. The tests take only a few minutes and are completely painless.

"Considering how serious glaucoma can be if it is not detected in its early stages, this is a rare opportunity to safeguard your eyesight and to prevent possible loss of sight," Moss said.

Licensed medical personnel do the screening while volunteers recruited, by the Lions Club will also be on hand to help in the health program.

HERE'S SOMETHING TO PONDER!

We shudder to think of oil and gas rationing in peace times in the Greatest, most affluent of all nations. We wonder what we'd do without the gas stations, to fill up our tanks, or for that matter, what would we do without the department store where we can buy a ready made sweater or heavy underwear. Make them from the sheep's wool? And to go further, if you want a steak, would you go out and slaughter a steer in case there were no butcher shops? Let's all start the New Year with thanks for our system, which in spite of its weaknesses, is the best we can come up with. Happy New Year!

Lane-Widel nuptials at Pontoon Baptist

The Rev. Gus Falter heard Miss Brenda Faith Widel and Timothy P. Lane repeat their wedding promises in an early evening ceremony at 5 o'clock on Dec. 22 at Pontoon Baptist Church.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George P. Widel of 2736 Willow Ave. bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth C. Lane, reside at 5123 Rapp Road.

For her wedding, the former Miss Widel selected a pale blue gown, full length, fashioned in Victorian style with a high neckline and long sleeves. She wore an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Norman Bennett, a sister of the bride, was her only attendant. She chose a gold pants suit and a corsage of pink carnations.

Mr. Lane was attended by his brother, Kenneth B. Lane, as best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception for the couple's immediate families and friends was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Both the bride and groom attended Granite City High School. Mr. Lane is employed by the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission.

The newlyweds are residing at 4140 Division St., Pontoon Beach.

Mark golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Emial Russell Walker, former Granite Cityans, observed the 50th anniversary of their wedding by repeating their marriage vows before Dr. Howard M. Reaves at Dauphin Way Baptist Church in Mobile, Ala. Several area relatives attended the ceremony.

The couple was married at Niedringhaus United Methodist Church on Dec. 22, 1923. They lived in Granite City about 10 years until moving to St. Louis and later to Chicago.

After dinner, Richard Foote Sr., committee chairman for both packs, presented Dick Pittenger, Richard Peach, Mark Yehling and Balasz Magyar with certificates for acting as "volunteer fathers."

Also receiving appreciation certificates were Mrs. Grace Hormann, Doris Baker and Mary McKinney, members of Legion Auxiliary Unit 307, who assisted at the dinner; and Legion Post 307 for "outstanding service to boyhood."

Mrs. Opal Harlin was presented a "helping hand" certificate.

Songs were led by Richard Dermott and Tom Chancellor prior to the arrival of Santa Claus who distributed gifts.

ABOUT OUR RAIN CHECK POLICY . . .

Kroger regrets to say that we are not always able to rain check items and quantities of items we run out of. Due to the nature of fresh produce, fifty split shipments per week, and the fact that we cannot predict customer purchases beyond our normal quantities, we do not always have a reasonable supply for us to fulfill all our commitments.

Officers present New Year's skit

Mrs. June Gehlert, a member of Granite Chapter 650, Order of Eastern Star, who now resides at Tacoma, Wash., was among those attending a Chapter 650 meeting during the weekend at the Masonic Temple.

Mrs. Betty McClintock, worthy matron, and Harry McClintock, worthy patron, presided. Escorted and introduced were Hazel Wood, Arline Fox, and Mary Bilbrey, grand lecturers, and seven grand chapter committee members.

A skit pertaining to New Year's Eve was performed by Mrs. McClintock and the five star point officers, following the stated meeting.

A New Year's theme was used to decorate the dining area where refreshments were served by Mary Ann DeHart, assisted by Avis Moore, Jerry Fisher and Bonnie Fisher.

Grand chapter committee members will be honored at the next meeting, Mrs. McClintock announced.

Women of Moose enroll members

Three candidates for membership in Women of the Moose, Chapter 247, were voted upon at a meeting last week at the Moose Lodge, 19th and Adams streets.

The new members are Mrs. Margaret Feeney, Mrs. Ada Crowder and Mrs. Norma Jean Kaiser. Mrs. Margaret Houseman, senior regent, presided and presented the candidates' names.

Invitaitons were received from the Cahokia and Edwardsville chapters to attend Green Cap ceremonies in February. Holiday greetings and expressions of appreciation were read to the 14 chapter members attending.

Prize winners during the evening were Pauline Presley and Mildred Votoupal. The next chapter meeting was set for Jan. 9.

DAV Auxiliary hosts party

Santa hats filled with candy, together with other holiday appointments, decorated the DAV Hall on Nineteenth Street for the traditional year-end party of the DAV Auxiliary Unit 53.

The evening was spent playing games and exchanging gifts. Refreshments were served at tables arranged by Mrs. Irene Hoelter.

Among those present were Mesdames Ruth Nunes, Helen Miller, Alta Carpenter, Jan Ridenour, Harriet Jones, Maxine Elston, Pat Mache, Mary Lee Busler, Bert Kichler, June Scheriger, Louise Schlieff, Thelma Dillard and Misses Debbie Nesporek and Tammy Dodson.

An election of officers will take place at the auxiliary's Jan. 15 meeting, it was announced.

Class differences explored in 'Upstairs, Downstairs'

England during the glittering Edwardian era (1901-1910) comes to life when Channel 9 presents "Upstairs, Downstairs," the premiere offering in Masterpiece Theatre's 1974 season, to be telecast Sunday, Jan. 6, at 8 p.m.

Part series, part serial, with each episode a self-contained story, "Upstairs, Downstairs" was originally the brain-child of Jean Marsh (who has a major role as Rose, the head parlormaid) and her friend, actress Eileen Atkins.

Both women, born "well below the salt" in the English system, in 1901 would have been relegated to the servant class with no chance of moving upward, simply because the propertied upper class considered servants called upon by God to stay in a menial position, waiting hand and foot on their leisured, pampered masters.

"Upstairs, Downstairs" tells the story of life during the reign of Edward VII, from both sides of the social fence. The "upstairs family" of the elegant house in London's exclusive Belgravia section is the wealthy, conservative Bellamys—Sir Richard, Lady Marjorie, and their two children, Elizabeth and James.

The "downstairs family," ruled by Hudson the butler, includes a cook, footman, kitchen maid, two parlormaids, a coachman, and a lady's maid, all arranged in a definite pecking order in imitation of their betters.

The 13-part series studies the characters and their relationships, revealing the tragedies, comedies, dramas, and scandals which involve the entire household, ranging from a visit from King Edward himself to love affairs between master and maid.

"Upstairs, Downstairs" opens the fifth season of Masterpiece Theatre, carried regularly by Channel 9. Further information on Channel 9 programming is available from KETC-TV, 6996 Millbrook Boulevard, St. Louis, Mo., 63130.

MAN IS INJURED

Royce McWilliams, 35, of 3804 Kirkpatrick Homes, was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital Monday after he was beaten at 25th Street and Nameoki Road. He suffered multiple cuts to his face and was released from the hospital after treatment.

LOOT MOBILE HOME

Items worth $550 were stolen from the mobile home of Paul Scaglione, 4010 Braden Ave., Lot 31, it was reported this week. Taken were a stereo, a casette player, four speakers, a typewriter and case, a power saw and a clock radio.

Had rough year? So did insurance claims staff

With the energy crisis, Watergate, rising prices and shortages of almost everything in the headlines, there was little for Americans to laugh at in 1973—except themselves.

Consider the following "odd claims" from among the more than 20 million insurance claim payments handled by a major life and casualty firm in 1973.

Last June, a Massachusetts supermarket was in the midst of a shopping crunch. Checkout lines were so long that they blocked the store's aisles. A middle-aged woman and her daughter tried to cut through one of the queues to continue their shopping.

"Excuse me, please," said the woman to a man waiting in line. But the man didn't care to move and loudly announced his right (and intention) to stay precisely where he was. The two argued back and forth to the immense enjoyment of the other shoppers.

Finally, the woman delivered an ultimatum—"Stop yelling at me or I'll pour a bottle of bleach over your head!" The man roared back that he would stand fast.

Slowly, the woman selected a bottle of bleach from her shopping cart.

Meticulously, she unscrewed the cap. Carefully, she up-ended it on her opponent's noggin.

Mad as a wet shopper, the man chose his own bottle of bleach and briskly performed the same service.

What happened next? Well—Other shoppers joined the fray.

They, too, grabbed bottles of bleach and merrily doused one another.

The melee, however, came to an abrupt halt when the daughter of the woman who began the festivities cried out, "Ma, ma! Did you bring your gun?"

Thus did a small child disperse a crowd and bring peace on that warm June evening.

Emergencies are nothing new to insurance claims people.

Take, for example, the New York claims man who received a telephone call from a woman who needed information about submission of a life insurance claim.

Asked about the insured's date of death, the woman replied, "Well, my husband isn't dead yet, but he isn't expected to live through the night, so I thought I might save some time."

Fate also has a hand in "odd claims." Consider the Illinois woman who was trapped on her future grave site next to the final resting place of her deceased husband when an 1,100-pound tombstone toppled over on her.

The woman insisted that the accident was a signal that her husband wanted her to join him immediately.

The bible tells us that men have dominion over the animal kingdom. Mankind's lack of success in getting this information to the animals is one of his greatest failures.

A Florida sports figure attended a fund-raising event where he was called upon to wrestle a trained bear. He bravely accepted the challenge, but the bear showed its disdain for the spectacle by cuffing the fellow to the floor and sitting on his head.

In Vermont, a porcupine lunched on parts of a man's car, a goat polished off another auto's upholstery and a dog dined on several popular volumes at a local library.

In Indiana, a deer leaped through a business' front window, kicked the receptionist and galloped over another employee.

A New Jersey man was feeding the alligators at a zoo when his glasses slipped off and were swallowed by one of the beasts.

An employee of an Oklahoma riding stable was run over by a tractor load of hay when a horse nudged the unattended rig's drive lever into forward.

A New Jersey landlord used a bull's surliness to discipline a tenant. The tenant, who leased a chicken coop, had fallen behind in his rent, so the landlord padlocked the bulding.

Persistent as well as thrifty, the tenant gained access to his hens by picking the lock. The landlord again retaliated by locking the coop—but not before placing his meanest bull inside. Once again, the tenant returned to pick the lock.

Witnesses to the subsequent event say there is something undeniably comic in an angry bull's sudden appearance in a cloud of chicken feathers. The tenant's comments were unprintable.

Kids do the darndest things. For example, a youngster was rushed to the emergency room of a hospital. The complaint was that the child had not moved his right arm for one-half-hour despite coaxing by his anxious parents.

The parents knew of no injury. The emergency room physician was able to effect a miraculous cure.

Funeral of Mrs. Leslie

Funeral services were conducted at the Providence Baptist Church, Williamstown, Mo., for Mrs. Bertha Leslie, 86, a Williamstown resident, who died Dec. 18. Stricken suddenly at her home, she succumbed later the same day at a Kirksville, Mo., hospital.

Her daughter, Mrs. Charles (Jo) Meyer, is the Illinois Power Co. home economist in Granite City.

Mrs. Leslie also is survived by her husband, David A. Leslie; two other daughters, Mrs. Carmen Barber, Canton, Mo., and Mrs. Pauline David, Anchorville, Mich.; and two sons, Richard Leslie, Detroit, Mich., and D. A. Leslie Jr., San Diego, Calif.

Auxiliary 113 performs services

During the Christmas season, members of the Tri-City American Legion Auxiliary Unit 113 delivered fruit and treats to hospitalized veterans at Alton State Hospital and assisted in distributing gifts and serving lunch to more than 100 children and Legion families at the Granite City Post Home, 1825 State St.

Holiday projects were reviewed last week at the auxiliary's annual party. Gifts were exchanged and games were played, with prizes awarded to everyone. Unit officers served as hostesses.

Yuletide bouquets also were sent to shut-in auxiliary members, Mrs. Bonnie Jaco, unit president, announced.

During a brief business session, five delegates were appointed to attend the 22nd District meeting scheduled Saturday in Highland. Those named were Dolores Weis, Loretta Goeller, Sharon Morris, Betty Winters and Mrs. Jaco.

Prospective members whose applications were approved were Mrs. Margaret Ritchie and Mrs. Patricia Shepard.

Mrs. Weis, membership chairman, said the 1974 dues are now payable. Only a few additional payments are needed to reach a 100 per cent quota, she added.

"All wives, mothers, sisters, daughters and granddaughters of Legion members are eligible to join the auxiliary," Mrs. Weis said, adding, "Our veterans' organizations need new and young blood to support the work of these worthwhile groups."

Mrs. Doris Edwards agreed to serve as chairman of a cookbook project. Members were asked to submit their favorite recipes for inclusion in the book which will serve as a practical memento, she said.

The unit will hold its next regular business meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 9, Mrs. Jaco announced.

Falter going for 8th win

Granite City Jan Falter will attempt to capture his eighth consecutive main event tonight at Belleville's Archview Stadium in the American Motorcycle Association sanctioned indoor motorcycle races.

The 17 year-old GCHS North student passed Bill Wesling of Granite City on the second lap of last week's 360cc feature race to post his seventh victory of the season, extending his lead in the point standings almost out of reach of any competitor.

Falter's younger brother, Greg, placed third in the 200cc heat race before powering his way to victory in his 10 lap feature event.

The weekly motorcycle racing event gets underway at eight o'clock tonight with qualifying laps first on the schedule.
